

Drug Information Site of the National Institute for Drug Prevention (NDI)

Dynamic Information Portal
for Experts

What is NDI?

- One of the main actors in implementation of the National Drug Strategy,
- A knowledge center.

Professional principles of NDI

- Assures quality skills and information for decision makers and for the professional community as well.
- Seeks and shares recognitions.
- Gives opportunity for organizing open professional debates.

Main tasks of NDI

- Reliable information
- Professional support of efficient public policy responses
- Support of drug prevention and health promotion activities on national level
- Quality development
- Professional cooperation

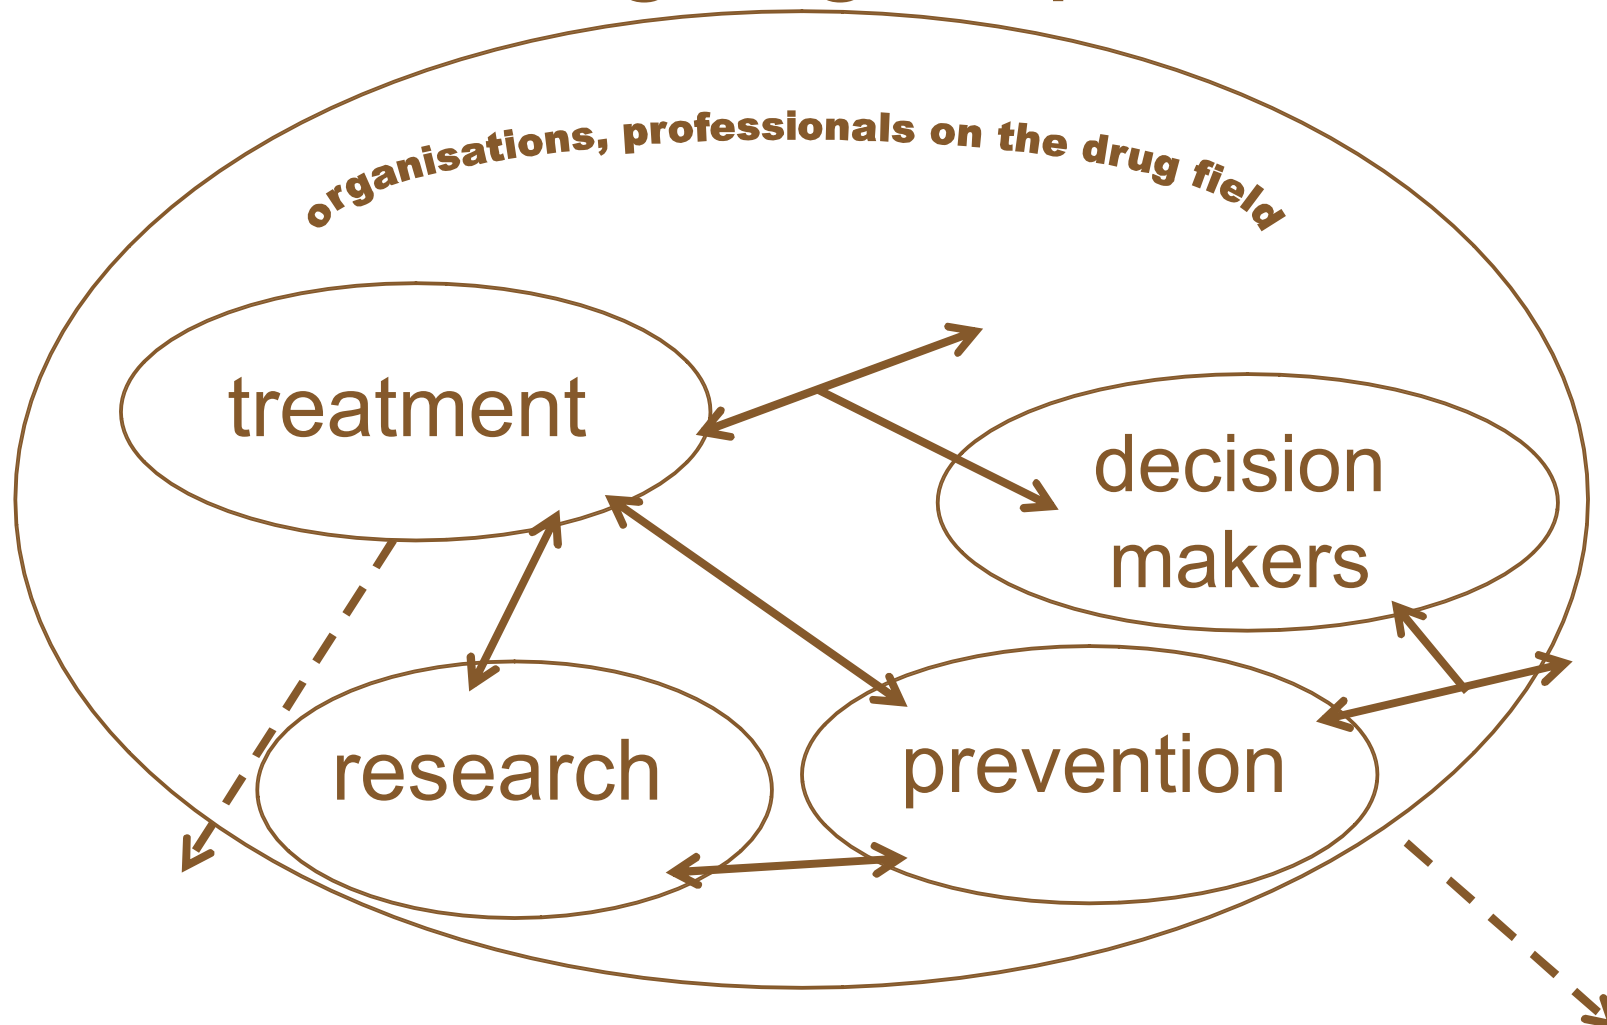

NDI's basic tasks

- to follow up professional recognitions and results related to drug use and other addiction problems
- to develop guidelines, standards and to evaluate implementation of drug prevention programs
- professional support and evaluation of Drug Coordinating Fora's operation (so called KEFs are special professional coordination fora of the local communities)
- professional support, evaluation and financing of the preventive-informative service of drug diversion scheme
- to initiate, support and evaluate researches
- information and public representation in health promotion and drug related questions
- to maintain and expand international professional relations.

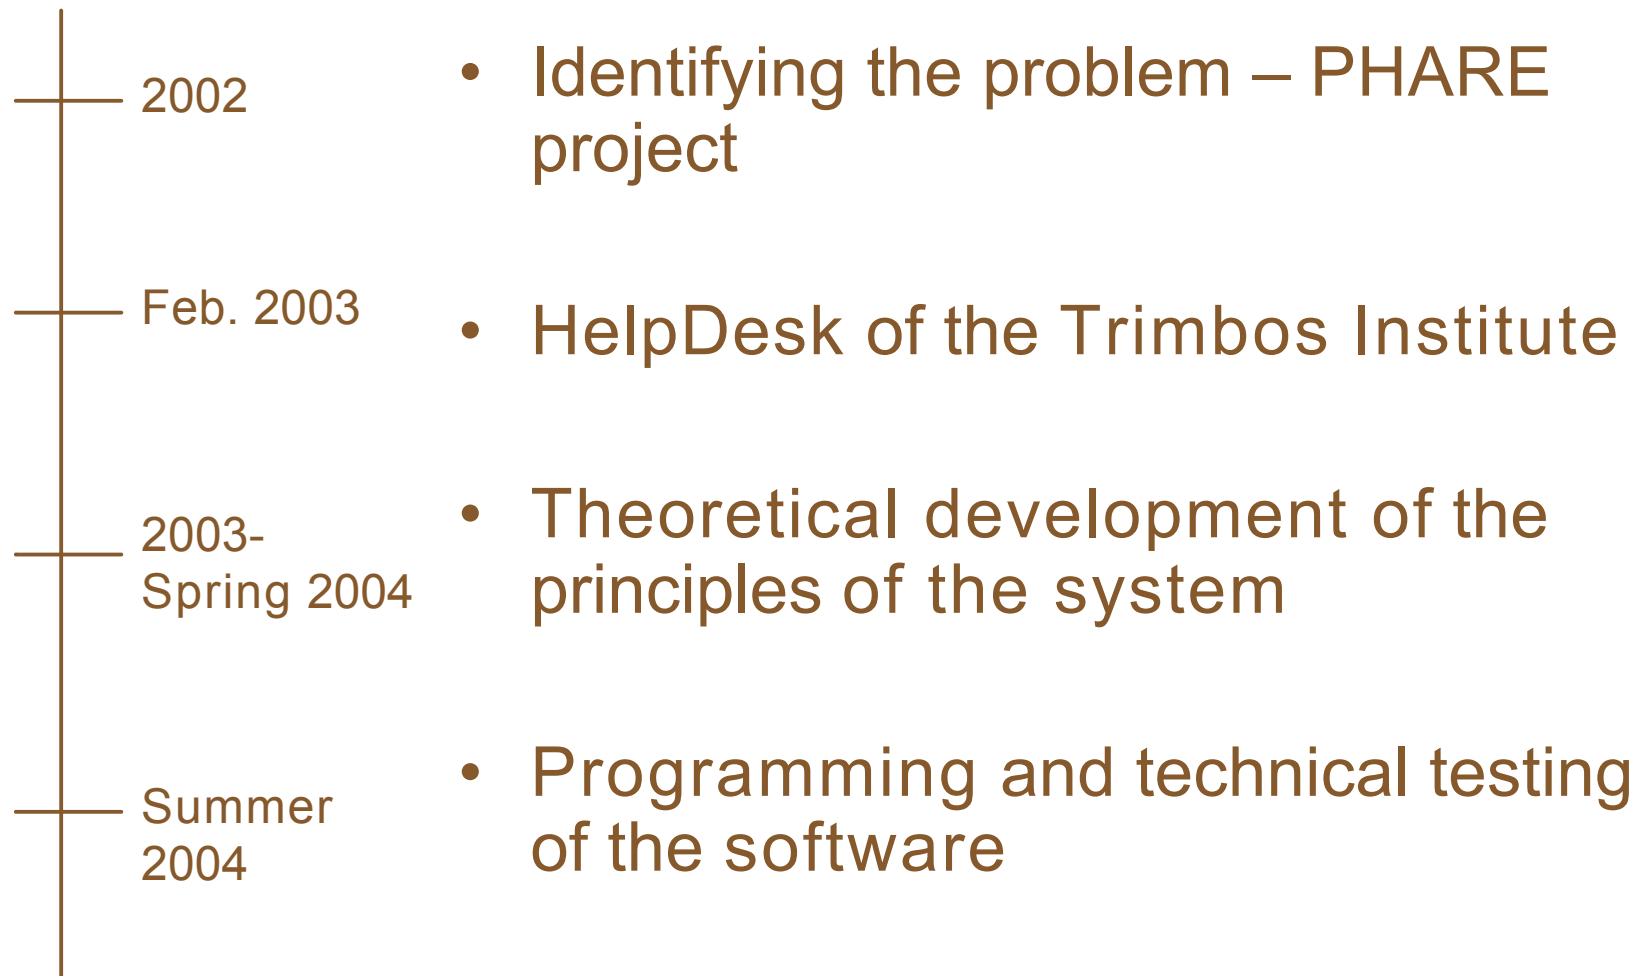

Overall goals of the website

- Central dynamic register
(always up-to-date)
- Information sharing
(on the long run: „clearing house”, culture of evaluation)
- Network building
(interactive communication)
- Providing info to decision makers (clearer picture about the activities)
